CVM GRADING GUIDE

rading comics is an objective art. Grading factors you should consider hen purchasing a comic magazine include: examination of the corners, aples, glossiness and luster of the covers, the aging and condition of e interior paper, etc. This CVM Grading Guide illustrates the many onditions that may be seen from the highest grade and top condition to e lowest collectible grade and shape. Your own comics will be in one of these conditions. This guide will also keep you aware when it comes to buying comics whether you purchase a bargain or a dud. (However, we should point out that no reader or advertiser is required to follow this or any other standard.) All prices in our CVM guide are in Near Mint grade. Happy collecting from us here at CVM.

Mint	Near Mint	Very Fine	Fine	Very Good	Good
Spine	 Spine	 Spine	 Spine	 Spine	 Spine
Mint A perfect, pristine specimen, devoid of any trace of wear or printing or handling flaws. Covers must be fully lustrous with sharply pointed corners. No color fading. Must be well centered. Many "rack" comics are not "Mint" even when new.	Near Mint An almost perfect example with virtually no wear. No significant printing flaws. Covers must be essentially lustrous with sharp corners. Spine is as tight as new. In older comics minimal color fading is acceptable, as is slight aging of paper. Most price guides, including CVM, quote prices in this grade.	Very Fine A well preserved comic still pleasing in appearance. Small signs of wear most particularly around staples. Most luster is readily visible. Corners are no longer sharp, but not rounded. Typical of a comic read only a few times and then properly stored.	Fine A clean, presentable comic with noticeable signs of wear. Some white showing through enamel around staples and moderate rounding of corners. No tape or writing damage. Book still lies flat.	Very Good A well worn reading copy with some minor damage such as creasing, small tears or cover flaking. Some discoloration evident and wear obvious around staples. Little luster remaining and some rolling of spine may be seen when comic is laid flat on table.	Good A fully intact comic with very heavy wear. Tears, cover creases and flaking and rolled spine will all be evident. No tape repairs are present. Only scarce or valuable issues are usually collected in this state.

FUTURE PICKS

† Ghoulish Greetings from the darker side of CVM Future "tooth" Picks section. In celebration of the season of fear, we have decided to offer two cover features on this month's CVM. The direct version features Gene Colan's terrifying vision of the ultimate vampire from TOMB OF DRACULA, while the newsstand cover caters to the more squeamish among you and focuses on the ever-popular protector of the innocent, GHOST RIDER. Shock, Horror! Multiple CVM covers I hear you cry?! What's next? Gold reprints? Nay, we say. Calm your fears and put away your knives, we are not expecting you to by two copies of our humble magazine; after all, the interior remains the same.

† But enough of this. Down to business and a quick rundown of the current and future horror/mature comics that are a reflection (except to vampires) of the growing interest in the macabre and sometimes downright nasty. Marvel's TOMB OF DRACULA follows hot on the heels of the recently released LEGION OF THE NIGHT. Both appear to be attracting reader attention. In addition, Marvel/Epic intend to follow up its successful Clive Barker HELLRAISER and NIGHTBREED books with yet more Barker offerings. Look out for Epic's adaptation of WEAVEWORLD and JIHAD – a NIGHTBREED meets HELLRAISER miniseries. JIHAD, a sort of WHAT IF for horror buffs, pits the lurkers of the labyrinth against the minions of Midian. It's Cenobite versus Nightbreed – a must for horror fans.

† DC continue their popular mature/horror line with the soon-to-be-released hard cover graphic novel, BATMAN/DRACULA: RED RAIN, featuring the writing talents of Doug Moench and SANDMAN artists, Kelley Jones and Malcolm Jones III. 1992 sees the release of a 4 issue miniseries: MY NAME IS CHAOS. This futuristic story is written by ANIMAL MAN and CLASH writer Tom Veitch and is pencilled by former HELLRAISER artist John Ridgeway.

† Horror movie and book adaptations abound with releases from Innovation, Millenium, Adventure and Dark Horse. Innovation are at the movies with adaptations of Hitchcock's classic PSYCHO, the demonic doll Chucky in the graphic novel CHILD PLAY 3 and the 3-D version of the film FREDDY'S DEAD: THE FINAL NIGHTMARE. Millenium and Adventure look to H.P. Lovecraft for their horror thrills. Millenium explores the chilling C'thulhu Mythos with H.P. LOVECRAFTS C'THULHU, an ongoing series with regular trading card inserts, while Adventure looks to Lovecraft's THE LURKING FEAR. Adventure also plans to release an adaptation of the cult film RE-ANIMATOR. All in all, a visual feast for Lovecraft lovers. Dark Horse's dark story is THING FROM ANOTHER WORLD – a two-issue series based on Universal Pictures movie "The Thing" and featuring script by Chuck Pfarrer (head writer for Sam Raimi's film "Darkman") and visuals by popular WORLD WITHOUT END artist John Higgins. Dark Horse plans to follow this release with a four-issue series THE THING.

† Other terrifying tales of torment include Tundra's FROM HELL featuring the work of top talents Neil Gaiman and Dave McKean, DEAD TALES, a reprint volume from Caliber's ongoing DEADWORLD series, and Studio Insidio's horror anthologies in FROM BEYONDE.

† These are just a few of the Tomes (or is it Tombs) for all you phantom followers to open up on those dark chilly evenings. For the rest of us cowards who scream at the sight of our own shadows, here's a brief look at some of the not-so-scary Future Picks coming your way.

† DC's Batman push continues with the eagerly awaited BATMAN VS. PREDATOR series and BATMAN: MASTER OF THE FUTURE – the sequel to the popular GOTHAM BY GASLIGHT. Do you remember the wonderful sets on the 1989 film "Batman?" Well, Anton Furst, the movie's set designer, has redesigned Gotham City for DC. Stay tuned for the "new look" debut in a three-part crossover story "Destroyer" in BATMAN #474, BATMAN: LEGENDS OF THE DARK KNIGHT #27 and DETECTIVE COMICS #641.

† Dark Horse continues their successful Aliens and Terminator stories with ALIENS: GENOCIDE, a four-issue series paving the way for the 1992 release of "Aliens-3" the movie, and TERMINATOR: ENEMY WITHIN picking up the Terminator storyline where SECONDARY OBJECTIVES left off.

† Valiant is looking to follow the successful formula of MAGNUS with the 1992 release of HARBINGER #0, available with coupons from issues #1 through #6, while Fleetway continues their U.S. invasion with 1992 JUDGE DREDD YEARBOOK and the U.S. premiere of DARE THE IMPOSSIBLE featuring the work of popular U.K illustrator, Dave Gibbons.

† Finally, a couple of Marvel anniversary releases to look out for. DAREDEVIL #300 will herald a new direction for the "man without fear" and WOLVERINE #50, will feature a special die-cut cover and will reveal the truth of Wolvie's origin.

† Did we say finally? Sorry, but we couldn't leave without a brief mention of DC's "main man," Lobo. Most of you will already be aware of the forthcoming festive fairytale release of LOBO'S PARAMILITARY CHRISTMAS SPECIAL – a definite smash hit for the Santa season but, you will have to stay tuned for CVM #66 to hear about all the other Lobo goodies coming your way. See you then!

DC Comics

Now that the initial interest in SUPERMAN: MAN OF STEEL is over, sales are suddenly dropping on all the Superman titles. Although these books are well done, there is a resistance to having to buy all four titles. If the top two companies keep squeezing the customer's dollars, look for more of this to happen. BATMAN: HOLY TERROR was a nice book and sold really well. ARMAGEDDON 2001 #2 sold well and has peaked interest in the new Armageddon series.

MARVEL

Mutants, Mutants, Mutants! That's the key word at Marvel. The new X-MEN #1 sold and continues to sell well. Demand is surprising considering the number of copies. UNCANNY X-MEN has done great with new artist Whilce Portacio, who is very popular. X-FORCE also continues to do well (but is there any truth to those rumors about Rob Liefeld leaving the book?). Demand for Thanos appearances continues, as well as demand for back issues of INFINITY GAUNTLET and SILVER SURFER.

INDEPENDENT COLOR

LOST IN SPACE was finally released and it wasn't worth the wait. MAGNUS: ROBOT FIGHTER continues to be a steady seller and one of the best comics on the market. Dark Horse seems to be making a major move to grab the number two spot from DC. Look for any upcoming Aliens/Predator/Terminator series to continue doing well.

INDEPENDENT B & W

Even though Marvel and DC have done their best at trying to kill this corner of the market, black & white comics still continue to have their small section of followers. Many stores do not even carry B & W's anymore but they keep on surviving through customer demand. Let's hear it for the underdog! Wake up zombies! Variety is still the spice of life.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

A word on marketing gimmicks: In the recent past, we have seen a seemingly never-ending supply of special covers, bagged books, collector cards, etc... With the customer dollar being squeezed already by a flood of new material from the big two and higher and higher pricing, it seems inevitable that there will be a backlash effect. I'm already seeing this on orders for the upcoming Robin mini-series. Let's go back to the days when a book's value increased because of merit and not gimmick.

Watch for WOLVERINE #50. A note to Star Trek fans: Adam Hughes artwork for the upcoming DC Graphic Novel is fantastic! Don't miss it! I've heard rumblings of Marvel increasing their output to over 200 titles a month over the next two years. Look for lots of mediocre talent spread real thin.

ARMAGEDDON 2001 was a great seller through the summer. Interest remains strong for new and used issues of supernatural titles, as well as the reprint editions of SANDMAN. Anticipation runs high for both Batman x-overs (BATMAN VS. PREDATOR and BATMAN MEETS JUDGE DREDD). We expect to sell ROBIN II by the armload.

Big Surprise: PSYCHO #1 (more cover variations!?!) and MODALA IMPERATIVE.

Big Letdown: WAR OF THE GODS is really confusing.

MARVEL

Mutants and INFINITY GAUNTLET and all related back issues, including IRON MAN #55 and X-FACTOR #24, are like gold bars. GHOST RIDER is still strong.

Big Surprises: LEGION OF THE NIGHT, WONDER MAN, and Sam Kieth MARVEL COMICS PRESENTS.

Big Letdowns: THE NEW THOR and NAMOR (Will the real Danny Rand please stand up?)

INDEPENDENT COLOR

SOLAR is really, really good. If you haven't picked it up to read, do it now before back issues go sky high. Other movers include all of Dark Horse's Terminator stuff (especially the one-shot) and also DH's THE MASK. Grab those early DHP's and Mayhem's featuring this character before the movie comes out!

Disneys are selling slow.

INDEPENDENT B & W

DHP with Sin City, DEADFACE, and FAUST are all good sellers. The new HATE is also doing well. Slow movers include Heddon and McWeeney Turtles and virtually all adult items from Malibu.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Special subzero section: Aircel Adult Titles!

We have noticed an increase in the number of prestige format books which we sell on a regular basis as opposed to even four or five months ago. Are the recession blues coming to an end? We hope so. As the holiday season nears, the "Ghost of Comics Lost" cries out to Scrooge as he drives a sleigh of eight major creators and cries, "On Miller, on Darrow, on Moore and Sienkiewicz; Ho Wagner and O'Barr, and Bros. Hernandez! We love you and we think you are great! But really, how long do we have to wait? HARDBOILED, BIG NUMBERS, GRENDEL and CROW; even LOVE & ROCKETS is late and we want to know where are the comics you promised long ago?" We miss your talent! Have a good New Year.

DC Comics

Batman has once again exploded into new realms of greatness. HOLY TERROR surprised regular readers as it perked the interest of new readers. Interest is up with BATMAN VS. JUDGE DREDD and (of course) BATMAN VS. PREDATOR. Where's Grendel? RED RAIN should really top everything off quite well. SHADE and SANDMAN both have great stories as well as sales. Good reading should be DEMON #19. Look for the return of two old favorites: AQUAMAN and THE ELONGATED MAN.

MARVEL

INFINITY GAUNTLET has caused SILVER SURFER sales to go through the roof. Scotland seems to be a good place for heroes as PUNISHER now appears in Blood on the Moors. DARKHAWK and SLEEPWALKER keep the younger readers happy. DEATHLOK hits all ages. How well will Larson keep SPIDER-MAN fans around or should Marvel cancel (cancel sounds good at $1.75 a pop!) JIHAD- for those that don't know is Hellraiser vs. Nightbreed. Just too cool!

INDEPENDENT

Valiant's SOLAR MAGNUS full bright color covers have eyes drawn to them. Good work, guys! ALIENS and PREDATOR always do well. (New Alien movie soon so stock up). Disney and Archie will probably be around forever. Good and bad, it depends.

DC Comics

I thought it unwise for DC to sit back with rather modest plans and watch Marvel pour it on. But, I think it might have been the best thing for them to do – to not panic and to try to compete with the X-MEN/X-FORCE juggernaut and just go about business. Looking back, DC had a very good summer with WAR OF THE GODS and ARMAGEDDON 2001 both having done very well whereas Marvel sold X-MEN and X-FORCE by volumes but saw declines in other areas. DC sold product across the board. Time will tell which will be truly collectible.

MARVEL

X-MEN #1 did, as expected, extremely well. With all covers selling about the same and most buying multiples of each cover. Marvel must be laughing all the way to the bank realizing that rabid fans (or should I say speculators?) bought 3 to 5 copies of each cover. That's 25 copies of the same product! If GM could only figure out how to do that. Oh my! Look out Japan!

Others doing well: X-FORCE #2 and #3 saw little drop-off and continued to sell volumes. INFINITY GAUNTLET also has strong sales behind it. Other than those, most titles have seen a drop-off, though slight ones. Why? People don't have the money to spend after the big X-Mania. Most collectors only have so much to spend, particularly those younger fans with summer jobs gone. With Marvel producing so much, you're going to see slow movers in other areas. Those affected: DEATHLOK (big drop after #1), TOXIC AVENGER (dying a slow death), NAM and ROBOCOP(dead) and, many not in the Mutant genre: F.F., IRON MAN, SHIELD, and CAPTAIN AMERICA. THOR, however, is on the upswing. Finally, look for CAPTAIN AMERICA: SENTINEL OF LIBERTY bookshelf special to be a true collectible story with good art and no hype.

INDEPENDENTS

If it's Dark Horse, it sells. If it's not, it doesn't. It's that simple. Gulacy's TERMINATOR is doing well as did DHP #54 with Byrne and Miller. Nothing much else is moving, not even TMNT which has seen big decreases recently.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Marvel's increased output has me cautious: too much market manipulation, too much hype with glow-in-the-dark embossed razzamatazz and too much product- almost 60 titles! I saw it happen in the sports card glut; collectors and retailers beware! Down the road, this could all be a flash-in-the-pan.

BATMAN, LEGENDS OF THE DARK KNIGHT and SANDMAN sales are up. The summer crossovers aren't doing bad despite shipping delays and complaints of the higher cost to follow the story. LOBO remains popular even when he guest appears in a title that sales are low in.

MARVEL

The top ten list is dominated by Marvel with the mutants. Titles such as DEATHLOK and DARKHAWK are doing well. PUNISHER, EXCALIBUR and the Spider-Man titles have the usual crossover stories; this has caused considerable interest in the Thanos reprints.

INDEPENDENT

TERMINATOR, Anne Rice adaptations, MAGNUS, SOLAR and TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES are the most popular. TICK and ELFQUEST are in demand when they are in stock and Dark Horse titles, in general, are popular. There has been considerable demand for Japanese Animation of good quality.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

There has been some interesting talk about the upcoming SANDMAN SPECIAL and ROBIN II. Some are upset about McFarlane leaving SPIDER-MAN. The Impact line for DC is not doing very well in this area. Marvel trading cards are still in demand; especially the holograms.

DC Comics

Early issues of SANDMAN and mid-issues of DOOM PATROL fly out of stock. ROBIN has slowed way down. Some interest in the new series of ROBIN but the majority isn't going to be buying all 19 covers. Also, DEATHSTROKE THE TERMINATOR is in constant demand.

MARVEL

SPIDER-MAN continues to move well with prices softening. PUNISHER prices are down a bit due to more coming in than going out. SILVER SURFER and Thanos have edged up a bit. NEW WARRIORS 1-5 are in high demand and short supply. Anything GHOST RIDER still moves out quickly. UNCANNY X-MEN moves as always. NEW MUTANTS overall, has slowed. INFINITY GAUNTLET has medium demand with prices edging up. WEAPON-X/MARVEL COMICS PRESENTS is still moving.

INDEPENDENTS

ALIENS first printings are sought after. Early CEREBUS are being requested and purchased more often. The most demanded independent has to be MAGNUS: ROBOT FIGHTER. Many ask for Gold Key STAR TREK. Demand for TANK GIRL and CAGES outstrips supply. Adult only titles have slowed down. Advance interest in HARBINGER is high.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

To DC Comics- There is no excuse for your limited series books being late. You have the capital resources to have a limited issue title all in house before you solicit the first issue. And, if you are going to do multi-issue crossovers, put them out in the order you want them read. When you find your direct orders slipping, you might ask why you are not even shipping new title information to direct retailers until our orders are due.

To Marvel Comics- Crossover Annuals with one chapter in each issue just doesn't cut it. More and more customers are saying the Marvel annuals just aren't special anymore.

To Everyone- Novelty covers and formats are a bubble waiting to burst. Better to stick with good characters, good storytelling and timely delivery.

BATMAN/JUDGE DREDD – need we say more? The anticipation for this book is gigantic! It should fly off the racks!! DC is coming out with a couple of new books this month, BLACK HOOD, AQUAMAN and of course, ROBIN II: JOKERS WILD #1. There are several different variations, good luck getting them all. People seem to be interested in the hologram which will be appearing on the books. As well, the BRAVE AND THE BOLD makes a return appearance in a four issue mini-series.

MARVEL

The Mutants continue to rule Marveldom! The new X-MEN title and its counterpart, the UNCANNY X-MEN, along with their cousin, X-FORCE, are rolling over all the competition. The GHOST RIDER is continuing its strong run as is the McFarlane-less SPIDER-MAN. INFINITY GAUNTLET reaches its conclusion and should end with a bang! The ADVENTURES OF CAPTAIN AMERICA with its beautiful cover art and interiors has done extremely well.

Marvel mania storms onward decimating our indie and DC sales! Impact proved to be a dead duck and it would seem to be only the ubiquitous LOBO and the hyped SANDMAN who remain standing on the DC front.

MARVEL

Mutant artist fever has hit the UK with all Jim Lee, Rob Liefield, Sam Kieth and Whilce Portacio comics scorching their way outta our back issues. Sabretooth and Wolvy appearances coming a close second.

The recession over here has caused sales of expensive Silver Age books to decline but the cheaper end notably SUB-MARINER and IRON MAN continue to move steadily. The speculator squad are busy buying up all 70's stock especially the horror titles. Marvel has started a "gold" rush with their second print, with GHOST RIDER #15 selling for more than the first print and being definitely scarcer.

INDEPENDENT

HATE, RIGHTBALL, and BRATPACK sell steadily while we're witnessing a lot of interest in British small press indies. Although undergrounds are a difficult commodity to acquire here, the people want them – especially BODE and CRUMB. Hey, these people want the classics! On a less artistic note, TERMINATOR sold well coinciding with the film release. All the Dark Horse titles are big news and they're selling almost as well as the Marv/DC boys.

Dear CVM,

Greetings from a "Comic Mom!" I'm 43 years old and my son, Alex, is 12. He started buying comics about one year ago and now has almost 2,300!! At first, I would merely drive him to the local comic store. Then, I got interested in what he was doing there and found that comic collecting was something we could do together. In fact, I have come to feel that comics have really had a very positive influence on my son's life.

First, it gets him to read more and I have been surprised that the writing is often quite good and the vocabulary is high enough to require occasional trips to the dictionary. Second, he's learning about money; how to save for something he wants to buy and how to invest wisely the funds he does have. We attend all the local comic shows together and Alex has learned how to look for bargains and how to negotiate the best deal.

But, the biggest benefit is that comic collecting is something we now have in common. We talk about trends, and stories and characters. We visit comic stores and conventions. We pore over catalogs to place mail orders and we eagerly await each CVM so we can discuss the latest price changes. We even play quiz games that we create ourselves, such as the "First Appearance Game" ("Mom, who first appeared in Iron Man 55?" "Thanos!" "Not bad, mom"). Of course, Alex always wins hands down, his knowledge of comics is astounding, but I'm learning and enjoying it.

I do have some complaints. I don't like the overemphasis some people, including publishers, put on making money. My son loves comics, he collects them and he reads each one. He buys titles that he likes and if they are also a good investment, all the better. Both of us don't like artificial shortages, such as the platinum Spider-Man. If it was not even available for sale, it is not a collectible comic to our mind. We don't like feeling that we must buy 5 copies of the same comic just to have a "complete" collection. We did it for X-Force #1 and X-Men #1 but, we won't continue to do it for long. We do like unusual ideas, foil covers, glow-in-the-dark, gatefolds and we do like good art and good stories. But please, spare us the second and third printings. I hope my son and I can continue to enjoy collecting together for a long time. My hope is that greedy publishers don't put an end to it. 'Nuff said.

Maria I. Moir, Halesite, NY.

Dear Mom,

It's good to see that some parents still take an active role in their children's hobbies. When I was young, my parents would drive anywhere within a reasonable distance for a convention. (To them 50 miles was reasonable. However, I felt like 150 was more acceptable.) I agree with the points you made; too bad most people don't. Comic reading may not be the finest literature, but if it's a choice between Nintendo, the idiot box or comics, I'd select the latter. I began reading comics long before Herman Hesse.

The value of money in our society is often misunderstood by young children (even some adults). For some, collecting comics is the perfect solution. In regards to multiple covers, see the reply to the next letter.

J.K.L. (New Kid on the Block)

Dear CVM,

I am 15 years old, and have been collecting comics for 6 years now. It's always been a fun and money-making hobby but now, a virus is plaguing the industry and it's called "Multiple Covers." This syndrome will eventually crash the market; we all know this. Nobody wants this to happen; not DC, not Marvel and not the independents (because they will be the first to go). Everybody's been talking about it but, nothing has been done. Well, I have a simple three-step plan:

SAVE THE COMICS

1) Collectors will only buy several copies of one of the covers. Let the other covers sit on the shelves.
2) Price guides like CVM should list all versions of a comic as one comic (usually their value is the same).
3) Marvel, DC, and several independent publishers must sign a document promising to never use this method again. It may seem that by signing this, their sales on key comics may be lower but, their lower-grade comics would sell better and it would eventually help the whole industry in the long run!!

Please give "SAVE THE COMICS" a try. It's our last hope!! I beg of you to print this letter and I hope CVM readers to write about their feelings towards "Multiple Covers."

Kevin Webster, Jacksonville, FL.

P.S.- I wrote this letter after reading Mark Dito's letter in CVM #64! Thanks Mark!!

Dear Kevin,

Ever since I wrote the article on multiple covers in issue #63, the can of worms seems to be growing larger. You have some very valid thoughts in terms of multiple covers. As indicated not only in our Regional Reports, but in phone calls and mail correspondence, we have heard comments on the recent publisher push towards these covers. The belief to some is that X-Men #1 is breaking the camel's back with Robin II: Joker's Wild threatening to cut the camel off at the neck.

Possibly, too much of a good thing.....?

N.H. (multiple letter reply man)

Dear CVM,

I'm not much of a comic book fiend but I do collect a few, mostly The Mutant Ninja Turtles. One day, I was looking at your magazine and I thought I was hallucinating, it said that dead titles such as Spider-Man and Batman were hot and that TMNT was not! Come on, guys, no one likes Spider-Man anymore! All that stuff is retarded! Comics abounding super heroes in childish costumes are not in any more. You don't even hear of them much and they don't even have much merchandise anymore. TMNT has everything from cartoons to movies, baby shoes to spread sheets, and video games to canned pasta.

Simply put, turtles are in and not to mention, the hottest selling line of toys right now – ask anybody! Turtles also has a much better theme and plot than all of that DC and Marvel crap. Let's wise up guys, you are a good price guide and I would hate to see people call you Comic Value Morons!!!

Patrick Marintali, St. Louis, MO.

Dear Patrick,

How did you find out about our inside joke on CVMorons? Seriously, despite the success of the TMNT movies, the comic books are not as successful as they once were. If you glance at the Hot/Cold- CV Movers list from issue #64, you'll notice Spider-Man is hot and TMNT is cold. In the current issue, Spider-Man is again hot, but the TMNT fell from the cold list. Batman followers will always buy out most of the available issues and keep the title alive and well. TMNT toys are still very hot and can be found in the latest issue of Toys Values Monthly, also published by Attic Books, Ltd (shameless plug). You never know how valuable they may become.

J.K.L. (A member of the Moron Club)

Dear Sirs,

The letter I am writing is one of concern. I just bought issue #64 and quite frankly, I am upset. It is in regard to your cover and the "Future Mega Hit! Batman vs. Judge Dredd" logo. Every month, thousands of comics collectors, dealers and fans pick up your guide for the latest news and up-to-date prices. It truly is a necessary buy in today' comic market place and having been a collector for over ten years, it is a monthly guide that is long overdue. When I look to CVM, however, I look to it for objectivity. I want to get a good, clear and concise feel for the comics market. If I want to get an idea for future books, I look at "Future Picks."

I feel you've done a good job of objective reporting on the whole, but with issue #64, I am left questioning. I feel that the cover logo is not in good taste whatsoever. Your choice to put up the "Mega-hit" logo, I feel, was too subjective of a title for your publication. I feel that now, regardless of whether that book is good enough to be a hit on its own merit, you have ensured its success. I felt that the cover was just a blatant form of advertising for DC. I do not doubt people will buy this book, regardless of its quality, just because it was recommended by you. And this is not wrong, that's what "Future Picks" is for, but not for the cover.

I hope you all realize the power you have on the market (or are beginning to have). This is a responsibility that demands objectivity. In these days of million-plus print runs and cheap gimmicks to make comic collectors buy comics, I hope that in the future, CVM will set a standard for objectivity and class that comic collectors and investors can look to as a haven. Please consider what I've said, I would hate to have to drop this magazine from my monthly buy due to a compromise in objectivity. I know you might think "Hey, it's only one reader" but maybe more feel the same way and this had concerned me enough to write you. Thank you for your time.

Peter Zafirides, Columbus, OH.

Hello Peter,

The most important aspect of any democratic society is dissent; it keeps those in power on their toes and responsible for their actions. The conscience objector of the month award from CVM is yours for October. (As you can tell, the award carries no financial benefits, but it may be a status symbol among our readers). When we first heard about a collaboration between DC and Fleetway/ Quality, we decided that a Batman and Judge Dredd cover ideally suited issue #64. The problem occurred in the laborious editorial process of cover design. For some unknown reason, two exclamation points followed "Mega Hit" instead of a question mark. We regret the mistake and hope for no such problems in the future. With regard to the point that CVM guaranteed its success, we don't agree. If our influence in the market place secured financial success for any book, our egos would increase ten-fold and objectivity and corruption would follow. However, your well-taken point will keep us on our tip-toes in the future. Keep reading and never stop criticizing.

J.K.L.

This publication is designed to guide comics collectors in the most current comics values. It is a tool, along with other fine publications, to assist collectors to enjoy the hobby.

The comics values listed are what a dealer will generally ask. Depending on a dealer's needs and condition of the comics, dealers will pay around 50% of these values for major hot titles, and 30% or less for minor comics. These guidelines will vary from dealer to dealer and as to location

All characters represented in this issue are copyright by the publishers listed on page 8.

HOPPING ON THE HORROR BANDWAGON..., OR "THERE'S GOLD IN THEM THAR THRILLS!"

by Georgene Lockwood

Whether it's vampires, cyborgs, psychos or Jack the Ripper, there's money to be made these days in the horror comics genre. It may not be the golden age of the horror comic yet, but if the number of new titles proliferating are any indication, the fascination with the grim and gory has again grabbed the reader's attention.

Historically, horror comics were in their first heyday in the 1950's with many different publishers using the realm of darkness and evil to create big sales. EC Comics led the original horror bandwagon with Tales From the Crypt, Haunt of Fear, and Vault of Horror. Because of the plethora of pandemonium, Dr. Frederick Wertham, a psychologist, wrote a book entitled Seduction of the Innocent (1953, Rinehart & Co.) which focused on the corruption of children by comics. Even though many of its theories were fabricated or manipulated (Batman and Robin being gay and Wonder Woman, a symbol of sado-masochism), parents and teachers purchased this book, and reaction to the comic book immorality resulted in comic book burnings. Combined with the paranoia of McCarthyism during this period, the comic book industry almost disintegrated into nothingness.

In 1954, the Comics Code Authority was created by whatever publishers were left when the dust settled following the Kefauver Senate hearings on Comics.

Superheroes returned to prominence in 1955. The horror material was toned down for the younger readers and no blood, guts or gore entered these horror stories. In fact, the words "horror" and "terror" were not even allowed to be used in the titles.

During the 1960s, Warren Publishing used a black-and-white magazine format to sneak around the code. Their magazines, Creepy, Eerie and Vampirella, were done in the EC style.

In the 1970's, a small resurgence of horror occurred with DC's Swamp Thing and Marvel's Tomb of Dracula. However, it didn't last. Superheroes were again at the forefront.

Direct sales started in the 1980's to supply comics to the new wave of comic specialty shops. Many different types of comics emerged from this non-returnable sales system from Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles to American Flagg. Because the direct sales comics gained a wider and more varied audience, the comics code could be bypassed with this distribution system.

This coincided with a more relaxed attitude towards media censorship. Problems such as sex, politics and religion were dealt with on a head-to-head basis. Action/adventure/suspense movies such as Aliens, Re-Animator and Predator (which have been adapted in comic form) are popular with mainstream audiences. Publishers have decided to tackle the adult market with horror, with some of their numbers being attracted who previously wouldn't go near that domain.

One such newcomer is Walt Disney Publications, whose Touchmark comics line (note the parallel to Disney's Touchstone pictures) will be releasing its first three titles in Spring 1992, with horror high on the list.

"We're basically a sister company of Disney, like Epic's relationship to Marvel, devoted to creator-owned material from the top creators in the industry. We want to stay away from the superheroes or sword and sorcery fantasy and do something unique and different," said Touchmark's editor Art Young.

Touchmark's three titles planned for the immediate future are Enigma, Sebastian O and Mercy, with the first Enigma issue hitting the stands in May, 1992.

"(Enigma is) about a guy who's harnessed 100% of his brain power and the strange way he copes with that," Young said. The eight-issue limited series will be written by Peter Milligan (DC's Animal Man) and drawn by Duncan Fogredo (DC's Kid Eternity).

Formats for future projects include basic comic format, perfect bound, softcover and possibly some hardcover graphic novels, and are to explore "horror, humor and slice of life drama" as themes, added Young.

But why has Disney moved in this new direction? Young believes it's because the audience is there (he speculates that the same college-age males who are devoted viewers of "Twin Peaks" are a large part of it) and the kind of talent is available to create work that can "push the boundaries of the medium."

Another relative newcomer gleaning the horror harvest is the fledgling Tundra Comics. Now in a close relationship with artist/writer Stephen Bissette (of Swamp Thing fame) and his company, SpiderBaby Graphix, Tundra is acting as co-publisher of Bissette's book-format anthology Taboo.

Tundra, only one year old, will continue to publish collected volumes of From Hell, Alan Moore and Eddie Campbell's fictional account of Jack the Ripper first serialized in Taboo. Volume two will appear some time in 1992.

New projects for Tundra include Bonesaw from writer/artist Jim O'Barr and John Bergin ("an eclectic horror anthology" which Bissette says will feature poems and songs, as well as comics material), and a sixteen-month calender called The Year In Fear ("a horror fan's delight" with sixteen plates by Bissette and unique day-by-day material from creator Mike Dobbs, featuring important horror film openings, births and deaths of major horror figures and the like).

Bissette's Taboo No. 5 is due out in November, and he says his new relationship with Tundra will allow him to bring the book from an annual volume to a quarterly by next year. Bissette attributes the growth in the horror audience to sociological and psychological factors that combine to make more challenging confrontative material appealing, if not necessary.

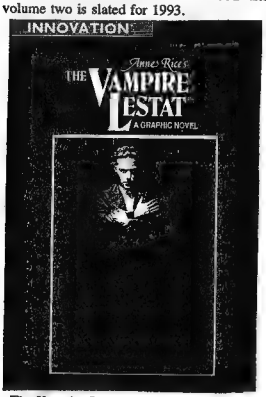
"The last two years has definitely seen a resurgence of interest in the horror genre," said Bissette. "I thinks it's related to pre-war tensions. Horror thrives when there's a lot of unrest. The genre holds a mirror up that people can respond to. The only problem is that the genre tends to get exploited rather than explored...We're definitely looking to explore what the genre has to say to us in a meaningful way."

Although Bissette says he knows the "horror" label is more readily understandable to most people, he prefers to call his current projects ventures into "confrontational fiction," and that, he says, is the realm of taboos and Taboo.

"We want to provide a collection point for creators that want to do confontational fiction, and that sometimes falls in the realm of horror, but not necessarily. In No. 5, for example, we'll be introducing a new erotic comic from Melinda Gebbie and Alan Moore called Lost Girls."

Next year, Taboo No. 7 will begin the serialization of the Sweeney Todd tales, with writer Neil Gaimen (of DC's Sandman title) and artist Michael Zulli (Puma Blues) collaborating on a "historical and beyond" approach.

Bissette also revealed that an extensive two-volume book project "covering as thorough an overview as I can gather of all the permutations of H.P. Lovecraft" is in the works. Volume one is due in 1992 and volume two is slated for 1993.



The Vampire Lestat graphic novel ©1991 Anne Rice; Published by Innovation Comics

A third relative newcomer is Innovation, which publisher and editor-in-chief Dave Campiti called "the success story of 1989," with its publication of Anne Rice's The Vampire Lestat graphic novel and subsequent four printings. Founded in 1988, Innovation has since added Rice's Interview With The Vampire, The Queen of the Damned and The Master of Rampling Gate to its list, along with several Vampire Companion volumes. Other licensed properties include Hitchcock's Psycho, Child's Play, Nightmare on Elm Street and The Phantom of the Opera.

"About half our list is horror," said Campiti, "although I never intended to become the horror maven of the industry." The company's forays into projects like reprints of Bozo The Clown and an original Lost In Space series attest to their wide spectrum of interests.

Campiti defined his audience as people who "generally don't buy the standard Marvel stuff." He estimated his audience is generally older and made up of more women than the typical comics audience, pinpointing "females and gays" as the primary readers of the Lestat series.

"What we're doing (distributors) say is impossible. I say, 'Get out of our way and let us do the impossible!'...We don't fit any preconceived notion of how comics company is supposed to work," said Campiti.

According to Campiti, future releases will include all seven Incarnations of Immortality by Piers Anthony, Terry Pratchet's The Light Fantastic, Dark Shadows (based on the '70's television soap opera and recent prime time series) and another Vampire Companion book.

The emergence of new companies primarily devoted to horror comics is one powerful indicator of the strength of the marketplace. Another is the direction taken by the big players of the industry – DC and Marvel.

"We've noticed a minor resurgence in horror due to the popularity of the HBO series Tales From the Crypt," says DC Comics marketing representative Patti Jeres, corroborating two other trends: a greater interest in horror from older segments of the market and increasing numbers of female readers.

"Sandman has an unusually high number of female readers," said Jeres, speculating that the historical settings, mythological themes and strong female characters might have something to do with that.

Special slipcase editions of Sandman are due in the coming year, with Preludes and Nocturnes covering #'s 1 through 8, The Doll's House including 8 through 16 and Dream Country with 17 through 20.

The Sandman, Distant Mirrors © DC Comics, Inc.

Other DC horror titles that continue to be successful are the all-time classic Swamp Thing, now written by horror novelist Nancy Collins, Hellblazer and Shade the Changing Man, although Jeres classifies the latter as "supernatural fantasy," as she also does Doom Patrol, Jeres adds that elements of the "horrific" increasingly cross over into other non-horror genres at DC, even into the superhero realm of Batman, noting Batman's meeting with Dracula in Red Rain as an example. DC Comics' mature division, Piranha Press, also expands into the horror foray with titles like Beautiful Stories for Ugly Children, an adult fairy tale series.

The Marvel horror universe, otherwise known as Epic Comics, is ruled right now by Britain's Clive Barker. Epic editor Marc McLaurin attributes the "British invasion" to the ability of Britain's horror writers to "draw on cliched material, looking at it in new ways."

In addition to Barker's continuing titles Hellraiser and Nightbreed (Barker doesn't write them, but acts as consulting editor), and the adaptation of Barker's bestselling novel Weaveworld, Epic will launch Jihad, a two-part limited series linking the two worlds of Hellraiser's cenobites and the Nightbreed monsters in "all-out war." The first edition of Jihad is due in mid-October, with #2 scheduled for mid-November, completing Epic's "Harvest of Evil."

Marvel Comics also has new editions of Morbius, The Living Vampire (from Spider-Man) and Terror Inc. in the works for 1992, hot on the heels of the new Tomb of Swamp Thing © 1991 DC Comics, Inc.

Dracula mini-series by Marv Wolfman, Gene Colan and Al Williamson, and Legion of the Night by Steve Gerber and Whilce Portacio on the stands now.

If there's a lot that's new, there's also a lot that's "tried and true." And EC Comics reprints are high on the list of horror titles that are sitting well on the horror bandwagon. They may even be driving.

Russ Cochran, EC reprint publisher since 1971 and long-time friend of EC's originator, William Gaines, has found a niche that's solid as a rock.

"My trick is to locate a private audience that has an intense interest in a narrow area," said Cochran about his overall business philosophy. Current projects for Russ Cochran Publishing include the EC Library, bound volume collections that include every page of the original comics, including covers and ads, with addedannotations by "EC scholars." These are produced in relatively small print runs of 3,000 to 5,000 copies, a plus for collectors.

"I'm publishing for the completest, those who want to compare artists...who want to have an EC library. They may even have many of the original issues, but they're kept in mylar sleeves and never handled...The EC Library can be used as reference and even given to the kids to read."

Cochran's library editions of EC material include the three horror titles Tales From the Crypt, Haunt of Fear and Vault of Horror, as well as complete collections of EC's science fiction, suspense and war comics titles, and reprints of Mad and Panic magazines. He says he'll continue to publish the library editions until their sales begin to dwindle.

"I've just about run out of Two-Fisted Tales...twenty-four issues in a four-volume set. We're down to around the last fifty copies. They sell so slowly, it wouldn't make sense to go into another printing."

In addition to the complete bound collections, Cochran is also publishing EC titles singly, for a different audience. The library editions, said Cochran, are for the person who says one thing, "I gotta have that!" and is willing and able to make a more substantial investment. The single editions are more for a separate audience of college age and younger who are just discovering EC's particular brand of madness and may well have first been introduced to the classic horror comics through the HBO cable television series Tales From the Crypt.

Cochran publishes a diverse portfolio of other material besides EC horror, including Disney art collections and a limited edition set of the collected Star Wars comics (drawn by Al Williamson), but he is perhaps best known and revered for re-introducing a new generation to the black humor of EC's greatest writers and artists and providing another opportunity for old fans to complete their collections.

As you can see, horror comics are alive and well (or is it "un-dead and well"?). Now that the genre is forty-something (the first was Avon's Eerie, published in 1947), it seems to be infused with new creative energy and, perhaps, a wider, more mature audience. But no matter how you slice it (pun intended), with familiar blasts from the past and innovative new kids on the block, the horror bandwagon is on the loose again!

Georgene Lockwood has just completed a book on Victorian weddings for Prentice-Hall. She lives in Newtown, Connecticut.
